

Royal Procession at Ascot Races

King and Queen Revive Semi-State Brilliance of Days Before War.

ABERT HEATH, England, June 15.—The royal procession in semi-state was revived today at the second of the Ascot races since the end of the war, which were attended by a notable gathering of society. The display of fashionable gowns worn by the women present was unusually brilliant.

King George and Queen Mary, who are entertaining a large party at Windsor Castle during the week, drove upon the grounds to an open landau drawn by four horses, with postillions and outriders. They were attended by other members of the royal family and the royal household, who followed in seven carriages.

As the royal party approached the famous private turf road nearly four miles long, from the gates of Windsor to Ascot.

DIPPEL IN DEBT: ASKS CARUSO'S AID Would Recover Chicago Loss Through Benefit Concert.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Andrew Dippel, impresario and tenor, whose operatic venture at the Chicago Auditorium Theatre during Republican convention week closed with a deficit of $10,000, has cabled to Enrico Caruso in Havana to come to Chicago at once and help him out of his financial entanglements.

"I cabled Caruso Sunday that I was up to my ears in debt—over 100 creditors, and all of them asking for their money right away. I didn't ask him for money. I am not an object of charity. My plan is to stage a big benefit in Chicago, starring Caruso. I will sing myself, and I haven't sung a note in twelve years. The benefit would draw a big house and I would be able to end all my troubles."

"He is a great man, my friend Caruso. He has had lots of trouble, and I feel sure he will help me out. As I have not had a reply, I think he may have left Havana. I have wired to Mrs. Caruso also."

"Chicagoans do not care for grand opera, movies, jazz music and a beauty show all on the same programme. I thought I had a winner, but it fell flat."

"Mecca" to Be Seen at Century. Arrangements were completed yesterday by F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest and the Messrs. Shubert, whereby the first presentation on any stage of the new Oscar Asche production "Mecca" will take place at the Century Theatre last week in September.

This production, originally announced for late February, was postponed because of the success of "Aphrodite," and then the sale of the Century Theatre to the Messrs. Shubert compelled the cancellation of all arrangements for other productions.

Mr. de Coppet to Wed Mrs. Onativia

The Marriage To-day Follows
Quickly the News of Interesting Engagement.

Friends of Mrs. Clara Barclay Onativia were interested in learning yesterday for the first time of her engagement to Mr. Andre de Coppet and that the marriage will take place to-day in the presence of members of the families in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Farquhar, 122 East Eighty-second street. The couple will sail for Europe soon and upon their return will live at 89 Park avenue.

Mrs. Onativia is a daughter of the late Henry Anthony Barclay and a sister of Mrs. J. Stevens Ullman and of Mrs. S. Oakley Van der Poel. She previously was the wife of Mr. Jose Victor Onativia.

Mr. de Coppet is a son of the late Edward J. de Coppet and a partner of the Stock Exchange firm of De Coppet & Foreman. During the war he served for two years in the army in France and was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross and the Croix de Guerre. He returned under Major-General Alexander a Captain in the Seventy-seventh Division.

MISS MAUD E. KAHN MARRIED TO MAJOR JOHN C. O. MARRIOTT

Major J. C. O. Marriott and his bride, who was Miss Maud E. Kahn.

Miss Maud Emily Kahn, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Kahn, was married to Major John Charles Oakes Marriott, Scots Guards, yesterday afternoon in picturesque St. John's Church, Cold Spring Harbor, L. I. There was a small gathering of relatives and intimate friends in the little white wooden edifice with an old-fashioned steeple that has been the parish church of that section since the early part of the nineteenth century. A bit of European color was lent by the presence of the awning that led into the entrance of a soldier of the Scots Guards, the best man's orderly, in his bright red coat and tall "busby."

Powers than one hundred guests witnessed the ceremony, and some of them had come from New York by special train, others by motor from neighboring places. The decorations of the church were entirely of white flowers and palms. The bride was escorted to the chancel by her father, who was met by the bridegroom, who was attended by his best man, Major-General H. K. Bethell, Military Attaché of the British Embassy in Washington, to which until recently the bridegroom was attached. The marriage ceremony was performed by the rector, the Rev. Harry A. Barrett.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with a skirt of the prevailing length, which was embroidered with seed pearls, the bodice being draped with lace, the sleeves reaching to the wrists. The long court train was embroidered with pearls and bordered with rose point lace, worn by Mrs. Kahn when a bride, and garlands of orange blossoms. Her long tulle veil was arranged in cap effect and held by a bandeau of orange blossoms. She carried white orchids and sweet peas and her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift from her mother.

Miss Margaret D. Kahn attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a gown of mauve colored batiste embroidered with white and inset with lace. Her hat was of white lace and she carried a large bouquet of yellow daisies.

The other bridesmaids, Mrs. Otis L. Guernsey, Miss Adelaide Sedgwick, Miss Marianne McKeever and Miss Marion Tiffany, all wore gowns similar to that of the maid of honor but of pale blue. The bridesmaids all wore the British Embassy, were Lieut.-Col. Andrew Thorne, Air Commodore Leo Charlton, Capt. J. F. Barker and R. F. Hadwin. They, as well as the bridegroom and best man, wore their modern British uniforms, with one exception.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride and guests were conveyed to the country place of Mr. and Mrs. Kahn in Woodbury where there had assembled a large gathering of friends, some of whom came from New York by a special train, and others who motored from country places in Long Island. Mr. and Mrs. Kahn and the bride party received in the library and afterward a buffet luncheon was served by Sherry in the dining room and also small tables placed on the terrace just outside. The bride came into the room and cut the wedding cake with her husband's sword and Major Bethell provided a toast to the young pair and also to Mr. and Mrs. Kahn. In the ballroom Markels orchestra played for dancing.

Among the many guests were Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Winthrop, Mrs. Charles A. Van Rensselaer, Mrs. Paul D. Cravath, Mrs. James S. Larkin, Mr. Ralph Kirlin, Mr. Alfonso de Navarro, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Brooks, Mrs. Herbert Shipman, Mrs. Henry Philipps, Mrs. Leslie Devereux, Mrs. Wilber Bloodgood, Miss Rosalie Bloodgood, Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Wing and Mrs. Lawrence Atterbury.

Major Marriott and his bride will leave to-morrow on the Imperator, as he is obliged to report for duty with his regiment in London. Mr. Kahn has given to his daughter a house in London and a place in Ascot.

EDWARD M. BACKUS DEAD. Financed Marconi, Associate of Diaz and Thomas F. Ryan. Special to THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., June 15.—Edward M. Backus, soldier of fortune, mine developer and one-time American Consul General to Brazil, died last night in his home near Tarpon Springs last night. He was in his seventy-third year.

Mr. Backus assisted Signor Marconi in financing the radio telegraph and during the regime of Porfirio Diaz he became an associate of Diaz in the development of oil mines. From that venture Mr. Backus was reported to have accumulated a fortune. Closely following the fall of Diaz, the Backus fortune was said to have been wiped out.

In partnership with British capitalists at one time, Mr. Backus planned to corner the world's marble market. The scheme was on its way to success when he sailed to Australia, resulted in the withdrawal of the British, and Mr. Backus, whose own money had been invested, again lost. A third venture was in rubber and as an associate of Thomas Fortune Ryan of New York.

During the administration of Presidents Hayes, Garfield and Arthur Mr. Backus was in the American consular service in Brazil.

'DAVE' FERGUSON, REPORTER, IS DEAD

Former Supervisor of 'City Record' Succumbs to Nervous Breakdown in South.

David Ferguson, formerly supervisor of the City Record and for years one of the best known newspaper men in New York city, died yesterday on his fifty-third birthday at his home at Milledgeville, Ga. He never recovered from a nervous breakdown which caused him to resign his municipal position three years ago and go South with his wife and three children.

Few newspaper men in the country had a wider acquaintance than Dave Ferguson, or wider experience. He was born in Norfolk, Va., June 13, 1867. During his childhood his parents moved to Brooklyn and he received his education there, becoming a newspaper reporter at 15. For the next twenty-three years his time was devoted to covering assignments, most of them for the New York World.

His experience was far more varied than that of the average man, and he "covered" most of the important stories of over two decades. He was the first reporter to dive under water on a submarine when in 1918 he crossed under New York Bay twenty-three feet below the surface in a Holland submarine. Mr. Ferguson dug out the facts which resulted in the exposure of Mayor Van Wyck's ownership of stock in the so-called trust in June, 1910.

Mayor Gaynor in 1914 named Mr. Ferguson supervisor of the City Record at a salary of $2,000 a year and his career as a daily newspaper writer came to a close.
